

Claudia Daniel – An Artist’s Journey

Claudia Daniel began her artist’s journey as a child. She learned the craft of ceramic making from her father who also allowed her to dabble in copper enameling while he created jewelry.

Locking onto one medium or style was impossible for this artist who finds beauty and joy in myriad art forms. Claudia’s great experiment in art has taken her into the world of mosaics, paper-making, creation of hand-bound books, watercolor and whatever else inspires her.

Recently, Claudia has been experimenting with monoprints executed in both oils and acrylics. She has also discovered the meditative powers of creating prints of icons in the Russian and Byzantine style.
